Most of my work is based on nature and what I see around me. I call my style Abstract Naturalism. Simple things like tree roots, the way water washes over rocks, or the color of autumn leaves, give me ideas for my work. Once I have the mental image of an idea I can begin working to capture the varied elements of nature's design. Most of my sculpture materials are found in the environment. All types of wood, branches and roots are incorporated in my work. Clay, that is pit or barrel fired, is another major component of my work.

5. Peter Grimord ~ Sculpture, Photography, Drawing

227 English Hill Road, Bloomsburg, PA 17815
570-854-4366 ~ petejoan.ptd.com
Directions: Follow Route 487 North from the Lightstreet I-80 Interchange to Lightstreet. Once in Lightstreet, turn left onto Easy Street and continue with a quick right onto Main Street. Then, make an abrupt left onto Back Branch Road and continue for .75 miles. Turn right onto White's Church Road for another .75 miles. Make a left onto English Hill Road and look for 227 English Hill Road.

My lengthy career as an artist includes sculpture, photography, and drawing. My sculpture and photography works are now in private and corporate collections throughout North America and the abiding sense of completion with these endeavors inspired a return to my "first art", drawing, which is something I did since I was very young and developed into a personal style while studying biology in college.

6. Joan Gallup Grimord ~ Drawing, Printmaking

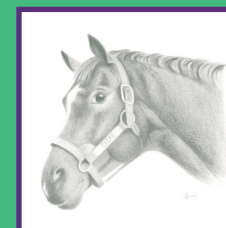

227 English Hill Road, Bloomsburg, PA 17815
570-854-5158 ~ petejoan.ptd.com
Directions: Follow Route 487 North from the Lightstreet I-80 Interchange to Lightstreet. Once in Lightstreet, turn left onto Easy Street and continue with a quick right onto Main Street. Then, make an abrupt left onto Back Branch Road and continue for .75 miles. Turn right onto White's Church Road for another .75 miles. Make a left onto English Hill Road and look for 227 English Hill Road.

Joan has been making playful and macabre art for a long time now. In her 30+ years art career, Joan has managed to combine whimsy and the macabre using paper combined with printmaking techniques and drawing. Additional materials may include beads, bits of minerals, and various threads.

7. Gail Fox ~ Oil, Acrylic, Pastel, Pencil & Handcrafted Natural Stone Sterling Silver Jewelry

Showing at: Forever Green and Pickering Winery
1549 Pennsylvania 487, Orangeville, PA 17859
570-387-7784 ~ gailfoxfineart.com
Directions: From Bloomsburg, follow Route 487 North. One mile after the Route 80 interchange, look on the left for a sign saying "Forever Green and Lightstreet Engraving." Gail will be displaying at Forever Green.

Gail Fox is primarily self-taught and has taken classes from various artists. Her longtime love of horses and equine graphite drawings prompted her to begin sketching in late 2003. Plein air painting in the Pennsylvania countryside is one of her favorite experiences as an artist. Her love for all-things-natural is captured in her art, jewelry and personality.

8. Abigail Smith Kurecian ~ Ceramics

502 Main Street, Orangeville, PA 17859
570-441-8132 ~ AbigailKurecian@aol.com
Directions: Follow Route 487 North, 5 miles from the Lightstreet I-80 Interchange. Once in Orangeville, Rt. 487 becomes Main Street. Look for the Green and Purple porch next to Briar Creek Insurance. Park in their lot.

Color and pattern from my painting and illustration background make my functional stoneware fun and whimsical. They will brighten any day. My functional pieces take life on my wheel. However, their distinctive shape, texture and personality is infused afterwards – through a series of sometimes delicate, sometimes dramatic hand-altering techniques.

9. Sandra Tranor (BlackBear Pottery & Fine Art) ~ Pottery

210 McHenry Alley, Benton, PA 17814
570-925-2060 ~ blackbearpottery-finearts.com
Directions: Travel North from Bloomsburg (Rt. 487 North) and make a right turn in Benton at the alley North of the Exxon gas station. The studio is on the left on the street behind the gas station (McHenry Alley). It is a white two story block building trimmed in red.

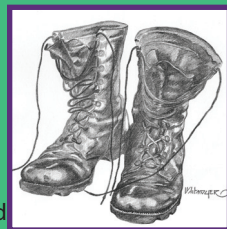

Pottery is the artistic area that holds my interest. I create clay pieces from my imagination using both hand and wheel techniques. My efforts are more artistic than functional. For over 20 years, I have been evolving my range of expertise with various clays and glazes through continued experimentation. It is that aspect of pottery as well as the earthy feel of the whole process that holds my attention to this art form.

10. William Whitmoyer ~ Acrylic Paint, Engraved Glass, and Pencil Arts

145 Mill Street, Benton, PA 17814
570-394-3656 ~ whitmoyerartstudio.com
Directions: Travel North from Bloomsburg (Rt. 487 North) and arrive in downtown Benton. William's studio is located on Mill Street.

My artwork is a by-product of my curiosity into how things work and my love of life. My creativity drives me to constantly explore a wide range of styles. At my studio, I offer lessons, workshops, retails sales and artworks by commission.
